To Whom It May Concern,

Re: Letter of Reference – Charley Baker | Haywood Securities

Charley was a valued member of the Equity Research team at Haywood Securities during her 2025 summer internship, consistently demonstrating professionalism, intellectual curiosity, and a strong work ethic. She delivered work to a high standard while taking the time to understand the purpose and context behind her assignments. She excelled at every task given.

I am pleased to categorically provide a reference in support of Charley's future professional pursuits. She demonstrated strong written and verbal communication skills and was able to convey her ideas clearly and thoughtfully in both individual and team settings. Her quantitative abilities are unquestionable. She responded well to feedback and showed steady development over the course of her internship, particularly in her analytical confidence and ability to take on more complex work. She set the bar for her peers while continuously raising her own. I find this self-drive to be a rare, admirable, and invaluable trait.

Charley exhibited strong initiative and a propensity to learn tough subjects quickly. She was proactive in asking thoughtful questions and made consistent efforts to improve the quality of her work beyond expected requirements. She contributed positively to the team environment and was a reliable presence throughout her time with Haywood. I have no doubt she will continue to do so.

Over the course of her internship, Charley led the pack. She demonstrated sound judgment and an unwavering attention to detail, while honing an already disciplined approach to her work.

Perhaps just as important, Charley is someone you want to sit beside in the office; a strong teammate with a positive demeanor. She represents the intersection of personability and performance. I know Charley will thrive in whatever setting comes next. The sky is her limit, and she will raise the ceiling of any opportunity presented to her. I cannot think of a young person who I would be more proud and pleased to support and to see succeed than I would Charley.

I am available to provide any additional information required per contact details below.

Sincerely,

Julie Browne
